

Nexus' nationally representative survey on the health and economic impacts of COVID-19 on Somali communities

Throughout June and July 2020, Nexus, a consortium of Somali civil society organizations, led a nationally representative survey to understand the health and economic impact of COVID-19 on urban, rural and IDP communities in Somalia.

The research surveyed 4,735 adults (18+ years old) from urban, rural and IDP settings across 17 regions. The map presents the proportion of participants per region.

